

29, UPPER BERKELEY STREET,

LONDON, W.

June 1: 14

My dear Stanley,

I have intended writing to you ever since the death of your dear and much revered father to say to your brother and yourself how much I felt

Mr. You both in the great loss you have sustained it is not only a personal loss to you but it is a personal loss to the whole brigade and is felt as such by every part and present member.

I was so sorry not to have seen you after the grand and impressive service at St Pauls and your brother Douglas also not to have been able to go down to the funeral at Glasgow which must have been most touching. In William was loved everywhere wherever he went not only by the boys but by the grown ups.
I consider it was a privilege to know him, and to look at his fine face made one feel a better man and more to realise the great possibilities there were for good in this world. He has gone to his Saviour who was so constant in his heart.

His loss of you two boys you only know, he was a most devoted father and I know how proud he was of you both.

Lady Moody joins me in every good wish to you both in your health happiness and prosperity With very kind regards

I remain

Yours very Sincerely

John M. D. Moody
